DISCOVER OUR STORY
Endless Writing for Everyone

While on vacation in South Africa, Correctbook founder Sam discovered what it was that children in the slums really wanted: something to write on. 250 million children do not have access to school materials. That has to change.

READ MORE

Every day 250 million children go to school without writing material. One of the results of this is that worldwide more than 750 thousand people of fifteen years and older are illiterate. In 2014, founder Sam saw with his own eyes how children in South Africa went to school without a pen or paper. The material was too expensive and was used up quickly. That is why we decided to take action: let us introduce you to Correctbook, the erasable notebook that can be used endlessly here and in developing areas! This is good for education possibilities and saves a lot of paper. With the purchase of your Correctbook, we can provide one child in a developing area with this erasable writing material for a period of three months.

Are you in? Together we can make writing accessible to everyone in the world.
